THE 1986 ARROW

*Lycoming College
Williamsport, Pa.*

Piece-By-Piece

A group of freshmen looks on as the annual "Lycopoly" event takes place.

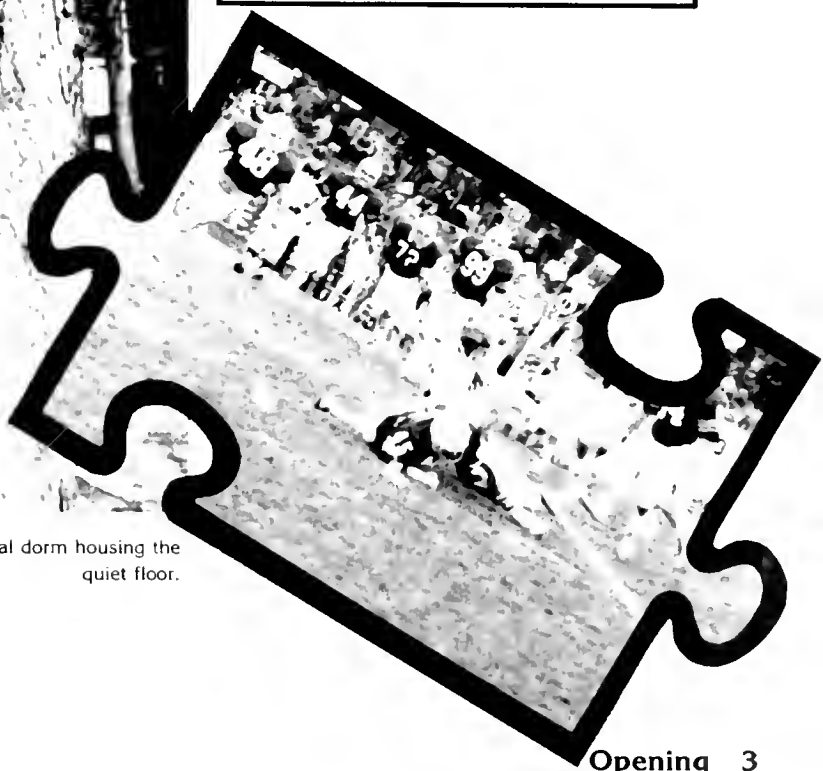

Pursuing that ultimate goal — a 4.0 cum, the MAC playoffs, surviving finals week, seeing the Hooters, paying that astronomical phone bill, donating a pint of blood, finding a job, earning a degree — The students of Lycoming College made 1985-86 a year of "Putting It All Together."

By taking the last two required courses in their major, progressing through those two hour classes, surviving the grueling practices on the gridiron, or walking the procession for a diploma, students worked piece-by-piece to achieve the whole.

Not all students' desires were the same. They rose each day with a similar idea in mind, however — Putting It All Together.

"A home away from home," Crever Hall is a co-educational dorm housing the quiet floor.

ell Work and No

Top: Sports may be seen as an outlet while in college. Basketball may be just such a sport. Above: Work may be an activity besides studying when at college. This Seiler's worker takes advantage of just such an opportunity.

Breaking her daily routine of studying, Wendy Park packs snow during the first snowfall of the season.

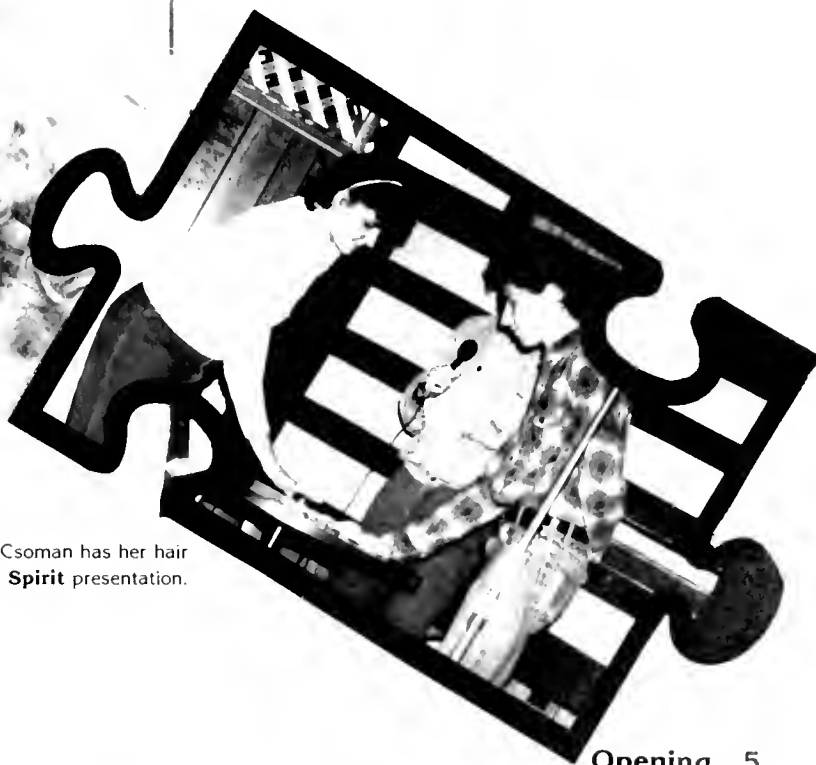

Play''

Above: Getting by with some help from a friend, Kathy Csoman has her hair styled by Jen Dagna before the Blithe Spirit presentation.

As the old saying goes, "All work and no play makes Johnny a dull boy," may have been the criterion for student involvement in activities at Lycoming. Whether working through campus employment or taking part in a drama presentation, students took a break from the daily routine of studying. Freshman Wendy Park commented, "You have to take a break from studying once in a while or you'll go crazy."

Although the old saying "All work and no play . . ." may not have been the ultimate criterion for students' involvement, Lyco students did engage in other activities besides cracking the books.

Triumph and Tragedy

The Space Shuttle ... a new Mass Comm building ... Achille Lauro ... longer lunch hours ... the Statue of Liberty ... AIDS ... A year filled with tragedy and triumph.

One cannot easily forget the tragedy of the Space Shuttle Challenger. Students filled the lounges of dorms in an effort to hear the news of the explosion aboard the Challenger as well as the unfortunate deaths of the seven astronauts aboard.

Terrorism was also around as an Italian cruise ship, the Achille Lauro, was hijacked. The terrorists, claiming to be members of the Palestinian Liberation Organization, demanded the freedom of fifty comrades in Israel. A handicapped passenger, New York resident Leon Klinghoffer was pushed overboard after a shot was fired to his forehead. Although events such as these were taking place, not all seemed hopeless.

AIDS claimed the lives of nearly 9,000 patients creating a panic in the U.S. After the disease claimed the life of the actor Rock Hudson, however, a move was made to raise funds to combat the dreaded virus.

The economy hit an upswing in the U.S. and the nearly completed Statue of Liberty was prepared for re-dedication. As many looked to the sky for Halley's Comet, some realized that maybe all was not bad.

At Lycoming efforts were made to create a much-needed Mass Communications facility. Mass Comm majors felt new facilities were urgently needed.

An attempt was made to bring students and administrators together when a "Meet with the Administrators" program was held. Issues such as extended library hours, a lack of Business professors, longer lunch hours, the \pm grading scale, and better security were discussed.

Unfortunately Lycoming College was not free from tragedy in the past year. Thomas Jenkins, a freshman from Ramsey, New Jersey, lost control of his car Parent's Weekend, crashing into a boulder. The incident claimed Jenkins' life. Fire destroyed the home of Maxine McCormick, Lycoming's Records Clerk, on September 7, 1985, claiming the life of her son Kevin. Careless smoking was deemed the cause of the disastrous fire.

Whenever one looks back over a year it's apparent that the year was tainted with tragedy yet blessed with triumphs. The previous year appeared to be no different to the students of Lycoming College as well as the world.

During a question and answer session sponsored by the Political Science Club, Republican Congressman George Gekas answered questions about federal budget cuts, increased defense spending, "Star Wars" and the 1988 Presidential election.

Current Events

Seniors — Freshmen . . . Faculty . . . Administration . . . Housekeepers . . . Buildings & Grounds. These are the People of Lycoming College. Each has its own special job or purpose on the campus. One cannot function without the other. "Putting It All Together" reflects the Lycoming College community.

People

Always ready with a smile, Dale Bower and his wife Mary congratulate the Class of '86 on their graduation.

Wearing many "hats" Dale Bower has served both the college and this class well.

Following commencement, Dale Bower pauses to speak with a parent.

Dedication

Returning to his alma mater eighteen years ago, Dale V. Bower became the Director of Alumni Affairs. In the years that followed, Dale also served as Director of Office Services and Director of Church Relations before assuming his current position as Director of Planned Giving.

As if these duties weren't enough, Dale assumed the role of class advisor for many of the past eighteen senior classes at Lycoming. Dale gave up much of his free time running errands for the Senior Class and many Saturdays working the concession stand at the football games. Dale had no regrets for doing these tasks. He unselfishly gave his time to this senior class, as he did for so many classes before.

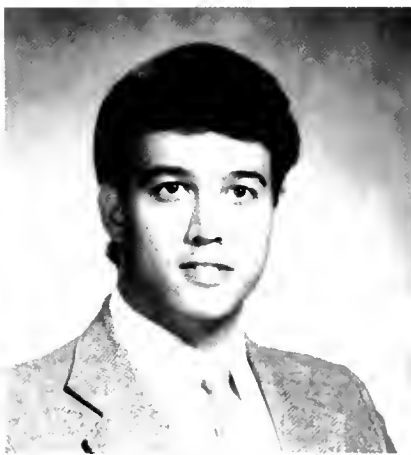

It is with great pleasure that the 1986 Arrow is dedicated to Mr. Dale V. Bower.

Delay after delay plagued the move of the mailroom to its new facilities in the basement of Rich Hall, making the promise that each student would have his/her own mailbox just a dream for the seniors. Although finished by mid-semester the new mailroom, equipped with 1,324 individual mailboxes, never opened to serve the students. Opinions on the new location ranged from "I hope this new system will be more efficient so I'll get my mail on time" to "I think the new mailroom is a waste of time and money." For better or worse, the mailboxes in Wertz Student Center have been retired.

LYCOMING COLLEGE

OFFICE OF
THE PRESIDENT

Dear Seniors,

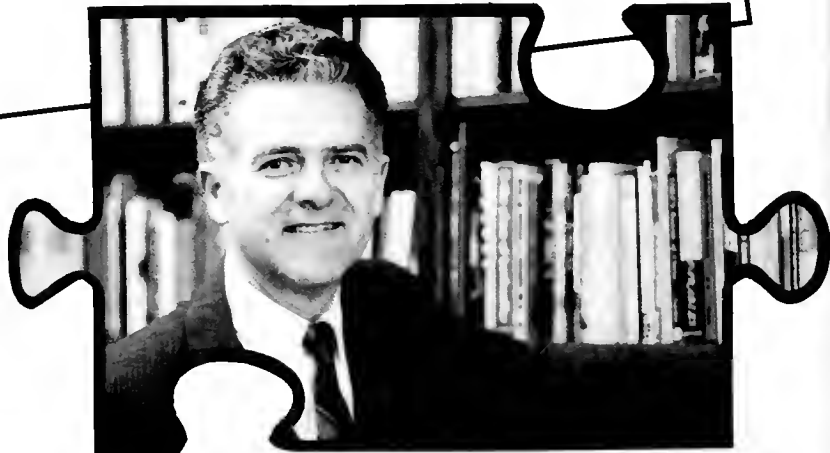

Who will remember what actually happened at Lycoming College during 1985-86? No one and everyone! We will remember what the many events actually meant to us but we may not remember the facts as they occurred. It is more important to remember the significance of what happens than it is to be able to recall the circumstances under which it happens.

I hope you had many memorable experiences in 1985-1986 and that reflecting on these in years to come, you will discover they have become more meaningful with the passage of time. Friendship matures as surely as we do ourselves. It grows and becomes increasingly valuable. What you have learned also gains new significance as time affords a broader perspective for understanding its significance. Life grows better because we have shared important things and continue to share a common memory of Lycoming College. Best wishes always.

Sincerely,

Frederick E. Blumer

LYCOMING COLLEGE
WILLIAMSPORT, PA 17701

To the Class of 1986,

Congratulations! As the newest of Lycoming College's alumni, let me welcome you into the fold. While I chatted with graduates and parents on the quad after commencement on that truly technicolor day, a student who graduated a few years ago came over to say "hello." He had recently changed positions and was now finishing a management training program with a large firm headquartered in New York. He was very eager to tell me how well Lycoming prepared him for this position. He rubs shoulders daily, he explained, with graduates of very fine institutions, but he was pleased to discover that he competed very well. I appreciated his thoughtfulness in wanting to share that perception with someone from the college.

I hope you will find that Lycoming prepared you equally well, no matter what path you follow. But I hope you will also value Lycoming in many ways, especially as the years slip quietly by. I hope it will be remembered as a place of warm and lasting friendships, as a place where you laughed and cried and matured into young manhood and womanhood. Jobs will be found and careers will be forged, but life is to be lived and enjoyed to the fullest. I hope you will live yours richly, with maturity, sensitivity and compassion. If we have helped there--then we can be proud!

LYCOMING COLLEGE

STUDENT SERVICES

To: The Class of 1986 in 1991 and beyond.

Fond memories are your own private and personal legacy of your years at Lycoming. Friendships unbroken by time or distance were created and have continued since you left the campus in 1986.

What else do you have left as evidence of your time at Lycoming? What do you still hold on to that you experienced when you were a student so long ago? Now that you have been away from Lycoming, what do you still value from those years which you can never repeat?

I am writing to you now as if you were reading this one, five, ten, twenty-five or fifty years in the future. Yearbooks have value as an album of faces and names that need reconnection after years of separation. The older we get, the more we forget.

As years pass, we tend to remember the good things and forget the bad. That is one value of time. It helps put things into perspective - and the older we become, the more we tend to recall events, people and places with fondness. It will happen to you, if it has not already occurred in your life. The older the anxieties, the bad times recede from our memories and become harder and harder to recall with passage of time.

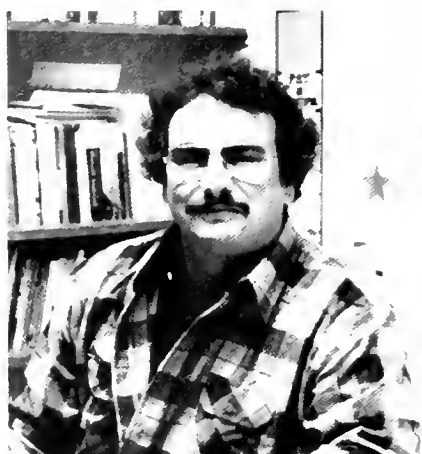

This is the gift given to all of us. We never really appreciate it until it is too late to recognize what we owe to others for the role they have played in our growth as a person. So, like the AT & T ads that urged you to "touch someone" why don't you pick up your phone now and call your favorite prof, or a classmate you haven't seen just to tell them that you remember them as an important part of your life. Continue to be in touch with those who cared about you, and for whom you cared. That is the secret of Lycoming - someone cared! You will pass it on to someone else, if Lycoming still has any meaning for you at this time in your life, whether you read this in 1991 or in 2036.

Sincerely,

“The reason I chose Lycoming College was because the small campus allows for a close bond between the students and faculty.” This answer is often given by students when asked why they chose Lycoming to be the place to further their education.

Lycoming College had a student body of 1129 students and employed 82 full-time faculty for the 1985-1986 term. This allowed for a 15:1 student faculty ratio giving each individual student more attention and therefore, an opportunity for a better education.

There are many benefits to attending a small college such as Lycoming. The small student faculty ratio resulting in a closer bond between students and faculty is certainly among this list of benefits.

In the classroom and beyond

The faculty of Lycoming College are scholars who have dedicated their lives to education. Teaching is their first love, but the classroom is not the only place they do their work.

For some the study of a medieval text may be a life's work. For others, composing music or creating art is a passion. For still others, a scientific laboratory is their "home away from home."

Many on the faculty have published significant books or articles on their research, yet the highest priority is teaching. Putting all of these people, with all of their diverse interests, together is what creates a college — the institution we know as Lycoming College.

Using both his computer and a keyboard, Dr. Grant Jeffers works in the electronic music studio.

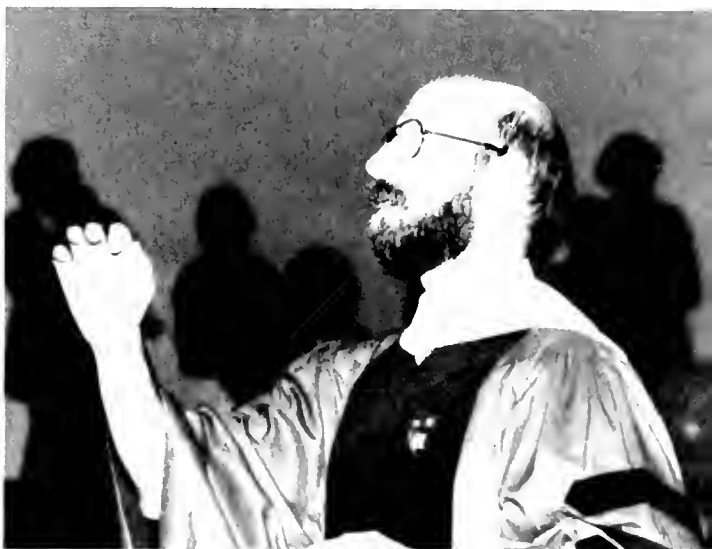

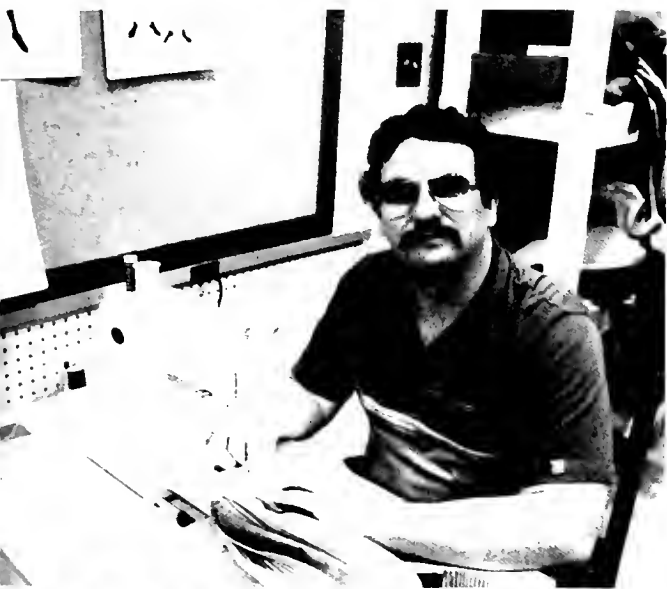

Outside of class, Dr. Robert Zaccaria can be found studying the pigmentation of newts through his microscope.

Student Life

The end of an era . . .

The 1985-86 school year began with a change as Lycoming College said goodbye to Father John Tamalis, affectionately known to many as Father "T". Father "T", who came to Lycoming in 1974, served his final mass on September 22nd after being called to minister to the students of Mansfield University as well as two churches of the Holy Child Parish.

Father "T", known for his pizza bashes, his cabin and his loving personality will be missed. The relationships he had with many Lycoming students, however, will last far into the future.

Among his many accomplishments while at Lycoming, Father "T" was responsible for starting the United Campus Ministries program, the Day of Fast, Big Brother and Big Sister, and Adopt-a-Grandparent. Father "T" was also the advisor to Sigma Pi Fraternity and has contributed a great deal to the Greek system at the college.

There is no doubt that Father "T" will be missed by students of Lycoming College. His achievements will be continued and built upon by Father Mike Kirwin, who came to WilliamSPORT from Scranton to fill his shoes.

Magic and Illusion . . .

Magic and illusion were the name of the game during Doug Henning's awe inspiring performance in Lamade Gym. After many hours of set-up Lamade Gym was converted into a spectacular stage, perfect for Henning's magic and wonder.

With the assistance of his wife Debby, Henning proceeded to captivate the audience with the disappearing person act, levitation tricks and much more. Henning mystified the young audience as well by creating a number of half dollars in front of a young boy's eyes.

At the conclusion of the show as the crowd recessed many times it was heard, "How did he do that?"

According to Henning, "It's all magic and illusion."

All the World's a Stage

The Arena Theatre was alive once again as several productions were mounted on the stage during the 1985-86 season. The first of the productions, Blithe Spirit, was set in the living room of Charles Condomine (played by James Williams). Much to Condomine's surprise, he receives a visit from his dead wife's spirit (Lisa Angelo). Needless to say, this caused much confusion, especially on the part of Condomine's present wife (Jennifer Dagna). Help was on the way, however, as Madame Arcati (Lynda Stefani) was set to locate and then drive the spirit away. Charles Condomine felt slightly differently, after spending some time with his dead wife's spirit.

Spirits were also high, in a different way during the second Arena production, Scapino. The seaport of Naples at a dock-side bar was the setting for this rollicking play involving two old men's children falling in love.

Players, Players, Players

Tracing the high school years of four students, Album, the third Arena Theatre production, portrayed the lives of typical students during the 1963-67 period. Rhonda Hunt played Peggy, a popular cheerleader who was going to show Trish (played by Margaux Rendzia) the way. A similar situation existed for the men of the performance. Jim Hunt played Billy, a handsome jock who had it all. Billy was going to show Bob (played by Steven Perry) the way. Album set out to show the mystery of young teens' sexual maturity.

Music was in the air for the final Arena production of the year. The Fantasticks, a musical filled with familiar songs such as "Try to Remember," gave musically talented performers a chance to exercise their abilities on the Arena stage.

Life in a Dorm

Although at times a dorm may be a pain (fluctuating heat, no hot water, etc.), dorm life isn't that bad. After all where else can one live in a building with several hundred other people after similar goals? Also, where else can one feel free to decorate his/her room however he/she may want (as long as it is returned exactly as found)? And finally, where else can one share a bathroom with at least three other and possibly up to twenty people? Some may say, "I can do that at home." But, is it really the same as "Dorm Life"?

Admiring their room set-up, Chris Brock and Kathy Fabian relax after a day of classes.

Buildings get old, and as a result, changes must occur. The Fine Arts buildings on the northeast end of the quad were evidence to this statement. Work began in early Spring to renovate one of the two buildings, with demolition of the second building beginning later. The first building is to house the Admissions staff by June of 1987. The second building was to be used to house a Mass Communication facility. After the demolition of the building, however, plans were discussed to build a new building. No matter what the results of these plans, the face of Lycoming College will certainly be a changed one.

The demolition of the Fine Arts buildings offers evidence of the changing faces of Lycoming.

Everyone knows how hectic classes can be at times, and everyone recalls those snow days back in High School. Well the desire for those snow days may not have been gone for Lyco students during the Winter of '85. Although an astronomical amount of snow would have to fall for classes to be cancelled, isn't it great to go play in the snow? The building of snow structures, snowball battles on the quad, and skiing down a hill near East Hall were all seen when the first storm hit the campus. Maybe the snow does take one back just a bit to the good old days?!?

Let it Snow

Wouldn't it be great to have a pet on campus? — a kitty to cuddle with, a puppy, bunny, guinea pig. How about a bull dog, hermit crab, or snake? Well according to college policy, "Pets are not permitted on campus." Dean Gary Gates put forth every effort to enforce the policy in an attempt to be sure no third roommate was residing in the rooms of students. The dorms are not the right place for pets, according to college policy. Therefore, maybe one should think twice before bringing that cute, or possibly ugly, little pet to the campus of Lycoming.

No Pets

Whirling a snowball across the quad, Jeff Young takes advantage of a Williamsport snowfall.

An unwanted visitor by the college administration, this bunny seems to be enjoying his home.

Flyers were put under doors and posters were hung. It was time for the Red Cross Bloodmobile. Members of Alpha Phi Omega and Circle K donated time to make the event a success. Students, faculty, administrators and Williamsport residents dared the table and needle and each donated a pint of blood in an effort to raise the supplies in the Williamsport area. "Although you feel a little dizzy at first, it's great to know it (the blood) will go to good use," commented Circle K member Sharon Munger.

“It’s 2:00 a.m. already. I can’t believe I have a final in six hours.” Ah, yes — finals week! That week of all weeks. Cracking the books, reviewing notes, study groups, cramming and more — all characteristics of finals week. Special study areas, extended library hours, and 11:00 p.m. snacks were established. Some students love the challenge of studying, studying and more studying. Others hate it. At any rate, finals are a necessary evil. As a result students take that special week and “Burn the midnight oil” in an attempt to obtain a 4.0.

“It’s nice to be able to have Mom and Dad come visit,” commented Tania Slawewski. Parents Weekend offers this opportunity to students. Hotel rooms are booked, dinner reservations made, the campus gets that special clean-up, and tablecloths are placed on the tables in the dining hall. Students have the opportunity to introduce their parents to their professors and show them campus life as well. Although Parent’s Weekend may not be representative of a typical weekend at Lycoming, it does give parents a taste of what their child’s life is like at college.

Parents Everywhere

Adjusting to Lyco

What a change! — A big difference! — Where are my keys? — Do what? By when? — $175.00 for books! — Where is that building? — The freshman 15?!?

These phrases and many more were heard flowing from the mouths of freshmen on August 25, 1985 — the opening of Semester 1. Experiencing independence, confusion, curiosity, new classrooms, new living conditions, and much more, these first year students found themselves facing an entirely new world — the world of Lycoming College.

After waving good-bye to mother and father, the feelings began to flow. "Wow! Here I am at college. Now what do I do?" Well, the question was answered for the freshmen. Greek parties . . . social functions . . . meals . . . and more . . .

Freshmen found themselves faced with their first Greek party. It was time to see if "Animal House" was accurate. Dancing, drinking and socializing were the name of the game.

Social functions such as Lyco-poly, ice cream socials, lectures in Skeath lounge and movies on the quad helped ease freshmen through the first few weeks of the semester.

Mealtime was another chance for freshmen to meet people. It appeared that the first few meals were eaten with roommates, but eventually the circle widened. Soon they were seen eating with other freshmen and later with upperclassmen.

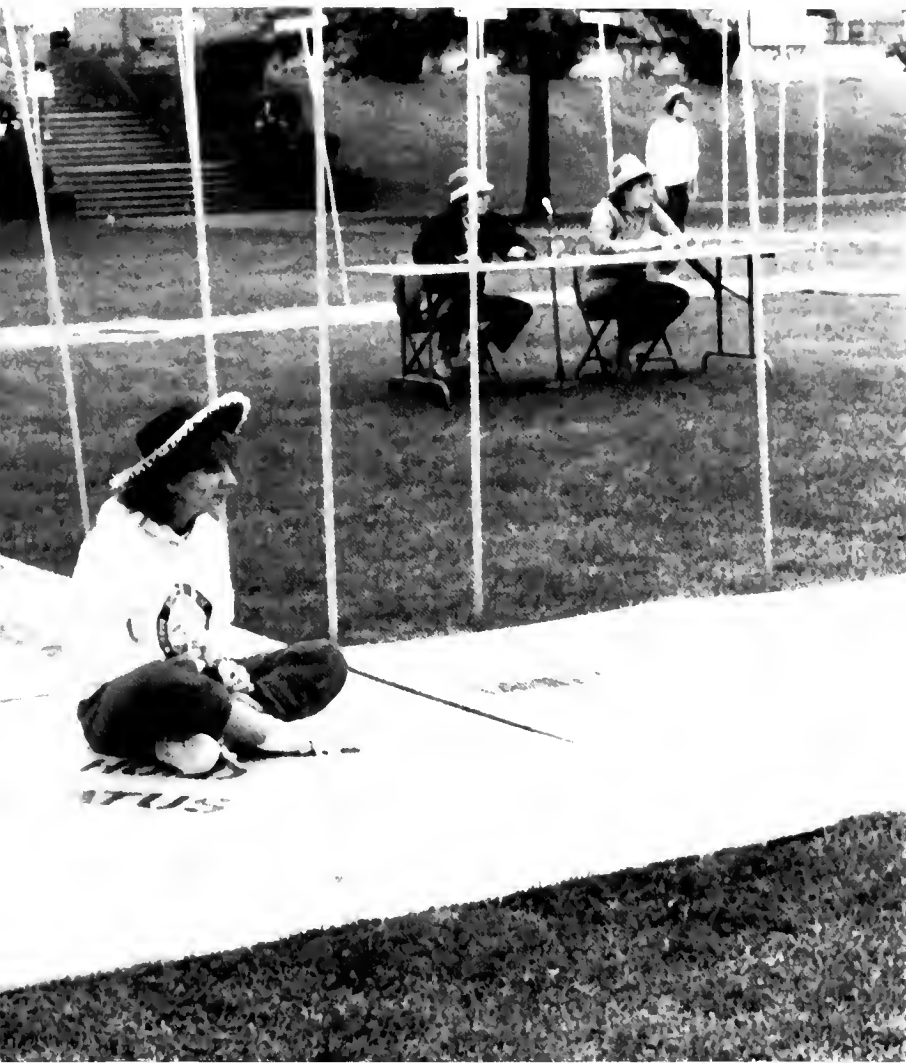

The first few weeks of the "Freshman Experience" was certainly a period of adjustment, but soon the freshmen became an integral part of the Lycoming College community.

Hooters

“Hooters, Hooters, Hooters” was heard echoing through Lamade gymnasium November 16, 1985, as an excited crowd energetically cheered the appearance of the band.

Making a stop in Williamsport during their “Nervous Night” tour, the Hooters lifted the audience to their feet by singing many of the smash hits from their “Nervous Night” LP and much more. Elaborate lighting and special effects such as a smoke-clouded stage also added to the concert’s impact.

As the lights dimmed the crowded gymnasium grew very quiet when the sound of “Where Do the Children Go” was heard. Suddenly everyone clasped hands, held them high above their heads and swayed to the beat of the song. “It seemed as if everyone was unified when we clasped hands,” added a visitor to the campus.

The top forty hits “All You Zombies” and “And We Danced” brought the crowd to its feet, dancing on the gymnasium floor as well as at their seats.

Although the Hooters, consisting of singer and keyboardist Rob Hyman; singer and guitarist Eric Bazilian; drummer David Uosikkinen; and bassist Andy King were a success at Lycoming College, the band’s popularity wasn’t instantaneous. The Hooters began playing in high schools, clubs and bars. In 1983 they worked up several arrangements for Cyndi Lauper at the request of Rick Cherloff, a producer for Columbia Records. Opening the Live-Aid concert in the summer of 1985, the Hooters sky-rocketed toward success. Soon their videos appeared on MTV and their songs climbed on the top 40 Billboard charts.

It was no different at Lycoming College. On November 16, 1985, the Lamade gym rocked to the sounds of the group, proving that “Hootermania” did exist.

Homecoming . . .

“Lycoming is humming,” the theme for the 1985 Homecoming weekend, was chosen because it described the mood of the alumni and the students as well,” according to Mary Russell, a graduate of and 50 year music instructor at Lycoming, who was the focus of the 1985 Homecoming weekend.

Chris MacGill, Assistant Director of Alumni and Parent Relations said, “the reason for the upbeat attitude was that this year’s Homecoming weekend offered many new activities for the alumni as well as the campus.”

An informal reception in Burchfield Lounge opened the events, giving alumni an opportunity to meet each other and renew old acquaintances. Events continued throughout the day. Several alumni classes scheduled get-togethers in the evening to continue their reunions.

Bright and early Saturday morning the golf team challenged the alumni to a day on the links. The field hockey team also offered their abilities and challenged their alumni to a game. The soccer team was no different, challenging their alumni to a competitive match on the field.

Other alumni participated in a road rally and scavenger hunt which was designed to familiarize the participants with the city of Williamsport and the Lycoming campus.

Following the rally the traditional Homecoming parade, featuring previous Homecoming Queens as well as the 1985 Homecoming Queen candidates left the Academic Center parking lot for College Field. The coronation of Sharon Heim, representing Kappa Delta Rho, as the 1985 Homecoming Queen capped the pregame festivities. Shari was escorted by Tom Wapinsky.

The highlight of the day was the 27-3 victory by the Lycoming Warriors over Wilkes. The annual Ox Roast sponsored by Theta Chi satisfied anyone who was hungry.

Winding down the Homecoming weekend was an alumni social hour at the Genetti Lycoming, followed by the Alumni Dinner.

Spirits were high during the 1985 Homecoming weekend. Reminiscing was the order of the day — certainly proof that “Lycoming was Humming!”

Smiling from ear to ear, clowns Pat Wittig and Berney Hileman remind us that “Lycoming is humming.”

Grueling practices . . . individual workouts . . . the trainers . . . the fans . . . the big game . . . all part of sports at Lycoming. Without the combined efforts of each of these individual groups, a sports team is an impossible dream. The sports teams of Lycoming College proved it can be done. They showed that "Putting It All Together" was the best way to procede. As a result, many of the Warrior teams enjoyed successful seasons.

“... Success”

“Working towards success leaves no time to worry about failure.”

Although not emerging victorious, both the Warrior football and basketball teams made it to the NCAA regional Division III playoff and MAC tournament respectively. Both teams showed a determined effort and persevered towards success. The Warrior basketball team went head to head against the Scranton Royals in a grueling triple overtime game. Meg Altenderfer, for the second consecutive year, achieved impressive results in the MAC diving competition.

Obviously success was achieved not only at Lycoming but in other areas of the sports world as well. The Kansas City Royals took the World Series, and the Chicago Bears won the 1986 Super Bowl.

Unfortunately not every event in the sports world of 1985-86 exhibited success. Pelle Lindbergh, the talented goalie of the Philadelphia Flyers hockey team was killed in a tragic car accident caused by drunk driving.

Fortunately, however, most in the sports world didn't have Lindbergh's fate in store for them. They worked towards success and had no time to worry about failure. As a result, they came out on top.

“Warrior Pride . . . ”

“A banner year would be a correct term to describe the year the Lycoming football team had in 1985,” according to head coach Frank Girardi. The Warriors compiled a 10-0 regular season record and won the highly competitive MAC title for the fourth time. The team was given an NCAA bid, but lost to Gettysburg at Gettysburg’s home field in a hard fought 10-7 game.

Girardi was optimistic at the outset of the season, knowing the team would do well, but not expecting the season they had. He attributed the good chemistry of the team to the leadership of the entire senior class of players, both on and off the field. “When that many people provide leadership it definitely helps team unity,” Girardi commented. He added, “the entire season was a great accomplishment for the team as a whole.”

Individual abilities added to the success of the squad. Senior Joe Parsnik led the team in rushing with 68.2 yards per game setting the school career rushing record. MAC Player of the Year Larry Barretta threw for an average of 169.5 yards per game and 21 touchdowns on the year. In the receiving department Rich Kessler had 50 receptions for 752 yards and James O’Malley had 28 receptions for 563 yards. Kessler and O’Malley each had 9 touchdowns. Senior Bill Keim made 5 interceptions to lead the team followed by senior Joe Hirsh, Joe Harvey and Mike Flaherty, all with 3 interceptions apiece. Freshman Frank Girardi led the team in kickoff and punt returns averaging 18.3 and 9.7 yards per return respectively.

Along with these great individual statistics, the team dominated their opponents in every phase of the game. Coach Girardi suggested that “this team was one of, if not the, most explosive offensive teams he has ever coached. Their ability allowed them to score from any position on the field.” The defense had a different philosophy this year opposed to the past years. Statistically, past Lycoming defenses have been better overall, but this year’s squad played its best when it was being threatened by the opposing offense. “In a nutshell, they did it when they had to do it,” according to Girardi.

Coach Girardi held high praise for Joe Hirsh on defense saying, “I feel the linebacker not only covered the run effectively, but the pass also.” He also added that “All-American Wally Zataveski was a cornerstone on offense with his great skills as a blocker.”

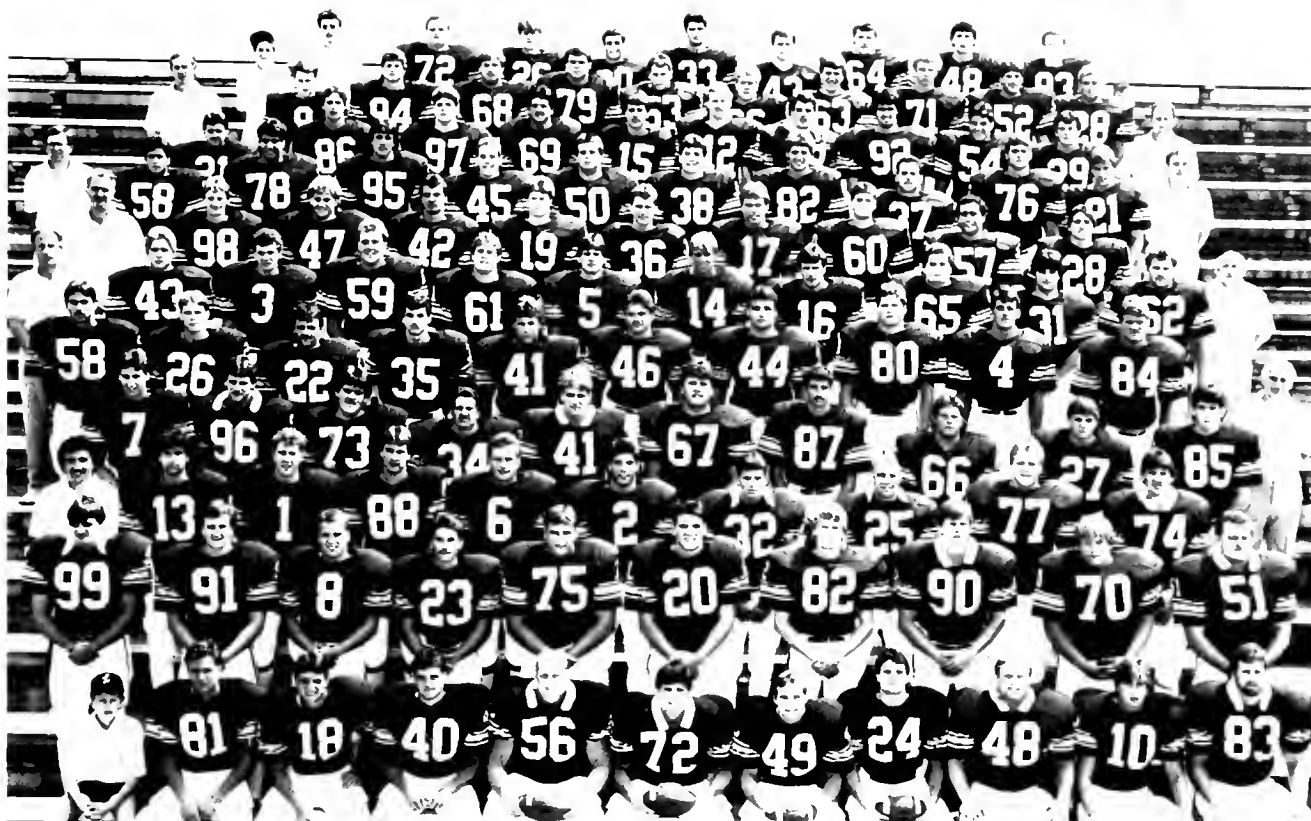

Girardi showed great optimism for the 1986 team. “With many returning players,” Girardi mentioned, “there is a great possibility we’ll repeat as MAC champions. A great number of quality recruits have visited the school also. Combining the returning players with the quality recruits, the Warriors’ possibilities for another banner year are definitely high.”

“ . . . Lyco Football ”

On a clear sunny November 15th afternoon the Lycoming Warriors set out to play the Gettysburg Bullets in an NCAA tournament game.

Rusty Fricke kicked a 48 yard field goal in the first quarter, putting the Warriors in the lead by a score of 3-0. The Gettysburg team failed to score in the first quarter, despite some impressive rushing gains.

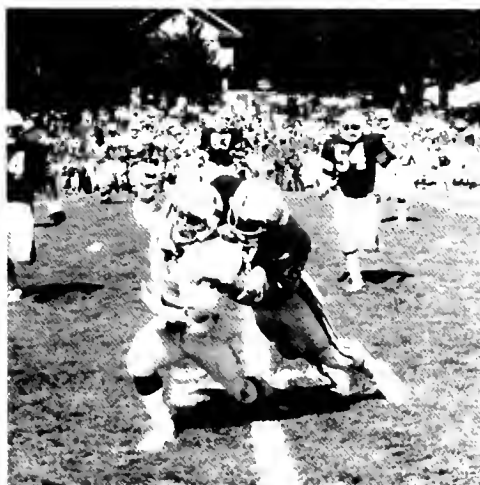

The Warriors scored early in the second quarter on a pass from Barretta to O'Malley. The Bullets did put themselves on the board when Howard Alexander crossed the goal line following a Lycoming fumble, and scored a second touchdown shortly thereafter to lead the contest 14-10 going into halftime.

Although impressive rushing and passing yards were gained, no further scores were made in the game. The Warriors ended the game with a total of 238 net yards while Gettysburg's total was 253 net yards. The Gettysburg Bullets emerged victorious over the otherwise undefeated Warriors by a final score of 14-10.

Hockey on the Upswing

“A very successful year could describe the season the 1985 Field Hockey team had,” according to head coach Janis Arp. The team compiled a 5-5 record against teams with more experience and a greater number of players. “The further into the season the players got, the more confidence they gained,” commented Arp. She added, “The returning players were very strong in their positions. Nancy Mabus, Kim Nagle and Deb Oberg, playing very strong in their positions, made it to Nationals.”

Division III field hockey is a “learn as you go” experience. Division I teams can scrimmage other teams for practice while in Division III they have to scrimmage themselves.

Arp commented that she is hopeful that more players will come out next year. “Recruiting has not seemed to be super. There are a number of student on campus who did not come out, but did express an interest. With the proper numbers, Lycoming field hockey will flourish,” concluded Arp.

Cross Country

The women's cross country team completed the 1985 season with a 3-2 mark while the men's team compiled a 2-6 record. The outlook of Coach John Piper was hopeful as improvement looked possible for both the women's and men's teams. The addition of former Williamsport High School cross country coach Jim Burget as an assistant coach made things look better for the future.

The women took second in the Lebanon Valley Invitational, which was the first such award for the team. The men improved their finish at the MAC meet over previous seasons.

Key performers for the women's team were Junior captain Cathy Gustafson, Freshman Margie Burba and Senior Merilee McDermott, who ran injured most of the year. For the men co-captains Senior Joe Abbott and Sophomore Sean Cartwright led the way. Mike Colavita emerged at the end of the year and took fifth place honors at the MAC meet.

"With strong recruits for both the men's and women's teams, plus some students who are already on campus, a strong team is possible for the '86 season," commented Piper.

Soccer

The 1985 edition of the Lycoming soccer team compiled the best record ever in the team's 29 year history. The Warriors under head coach J. Scott McNeill, set the school mark with 9 wins, 6 losses, and 1 tie. They also broke another school record by scoring 42 goals on the year. Freshman Courtney Walters led the team in scoring with 25 points followed closely by Sophomore Tom Totaro, Junior Paul Sharkey, and Sophomore John Cheevers. Tom Stinson also made a great contribution to the team with some fine goalkeeping.

Looking ahead to 1986, the Warriors will only lose four seniors, three of whom started. The top five scorers mentioned before will all return plus other key players Junior Scott McTighe and Freshmen Bill Wilmer, John Downs, and Joe Hales.

Walters received post season All-MAC North honors, the only freshman so honored.

With another prosperous recruiting year ahead, the Warrior's Soccer team plans to continue its winning ways and build a lasting tradition.

Keeping the athletes fit . . .

The final seconds are ticking off the clock and another victory is in the bag for Lycoming. The players and coaches deserve a great deal of credit for a good performance in the contest, but they are not alone in deserving credit for the victory. Fans tend to forget the people behind the scenes who keep the athletes healthy and fit to play — the trainers.

Lycoming College has a staff of student trainers who are under the supervision of head athletic trainer Don Whitford. These students volunteer their time serving all the athletic teams of the college. This time is applied to meeting the qualifications for becoming a certified athletic trainer. Along with a certain number of hours worked, the students must take classes in training methods and techniques and pass a difficult test to become certified. Athletic training is, without a doubt, an upcoming profession. An injury that years ago could have ended an athlete's career can many times today be rehabilitated allowing the athlete to compete once again.

Whitford stated, "The most gratifying thing about athletic training is the successful rehabilitation of an injury." He also pointed out that, "there is no single, most important aspect of training. Making sure the athletes are participating to the best of their ability in safe, competitive environment is a major role of the trainer." Whitford said that there are also things that make athletic training a tough profession. "Probably the toughest thing of all is the pressure involved in making sure the athlete is mentally and physically healthy, along with the correct handling of injuries."

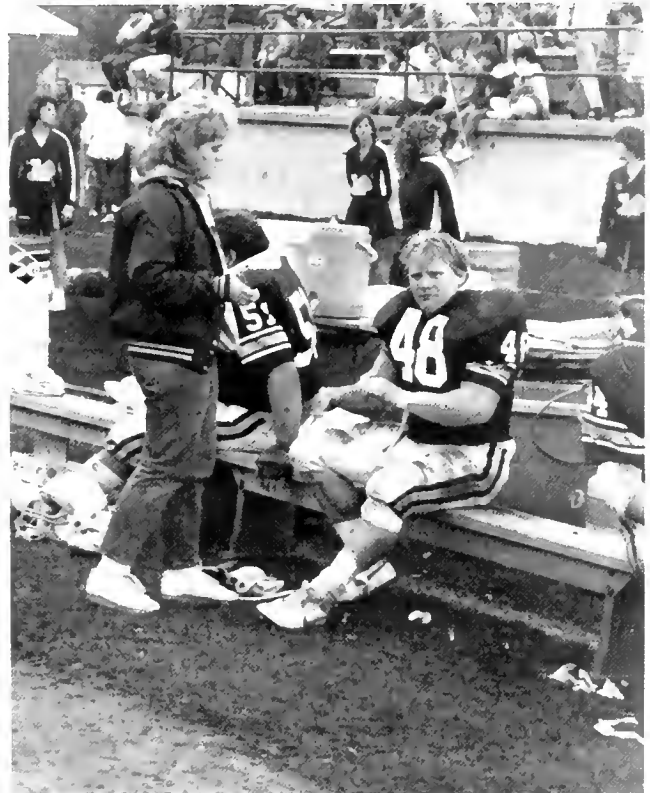

Whitford showed great optimism for the future of the athletic training program at Lycoming. He feels it is a good program, however it can be only as good as the people who participate in it.

Injured on the previous play, Mike Gilmore has his ankle taped by a team of athletic trainers.

The sidelines are a busy place as football players are tended by volunteer student athletic trainers.

Underdogs Grapple to the Top

The 1985-86 wrestling team bounced back from an up-and-down dual meet season to win the Middle Atlantic Conference championship. The Warriors were in the unusual position of being an underdog at the MACs, but all 10 of the Lycoming wrestlers scored at least two points to give the Blue and Gold a thrilling 112.5 to 110.75 win over defending champion Delaware Valley.

Three Warriors won individual titles at the MACs, Joe Humphreys at 150 pounds, Roger Crebs at 177 pounds and a championship clinching Mike Gilmore at heavyweight.

It was the third straight MAC title for Crebs and the second title in three years for Humphreys. For the Warriors, it was their seventh team title in 10 years. Warriors coach Budd Whitehill said this title, his eighth in 30 years at Lycoming, was his most satisfying because two of his top wrestlers missed the MACs with injuries and the team was not expected to win.

Women's Basketball Rebuilding

First-year coach Kim Rockey had an, excuse the expression, rocky season, finishing 3-13. Rockey was able to lay the foundation as she attempts to build the Lady Warriors into a force to be reckoned with in the tough MAC.

Six of the Lycoming losses came against three MAC foes that eventually advanced to the NCAA Division III tournament and three other losses were by six points or less.

Deb German was the lone senior on the team and she capped her career by leading the team in assists and steals. The future looks bright as the Lady Warriors look to join the football, wrestling and men's basketball teams as powers in the MAC.

Lycoming Basketball Builds a Tradition

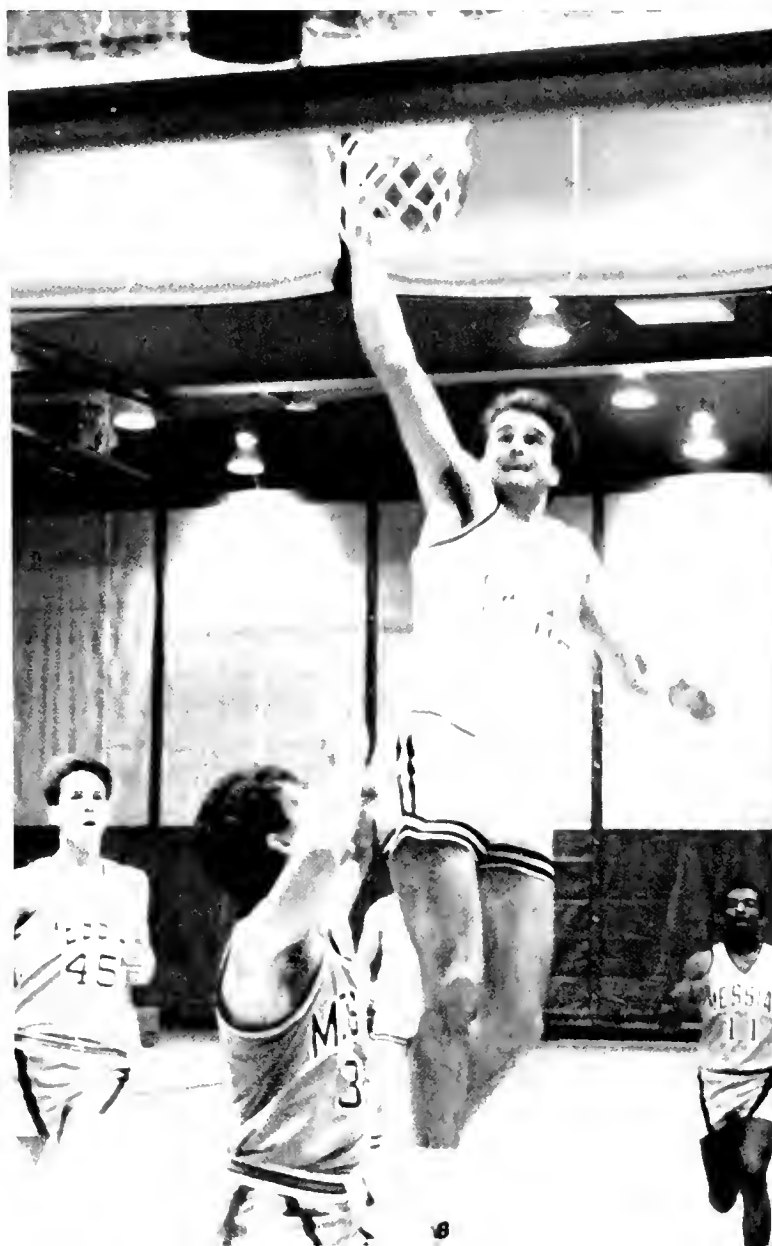

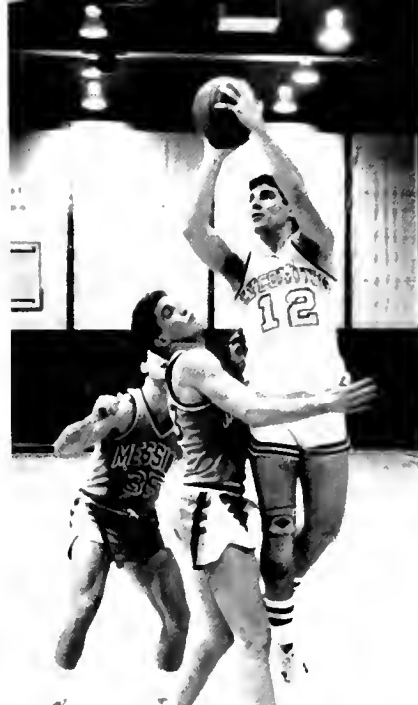

The 1985-86 Warrior men's basketball team under 24 year veteran head coach Clarence "Dutch" Burch completed a successful 14-9 overall season. The team played well throughout the long season, but really managed to "put it all together" at the end, winning 8 of their last 10 regular season games.

In Middle Atlantic Conference competition the team was 12-4, qualifying for the MAC Northern Division playoffs at Scranton. The Warriors were eliminated by the University of Scranton in a thrilling triple overtime game.

Four year lettermen and team captains Ed Langer, Sam Burch and Scott Breitmeyer all had outstanding years. Langer led the team in scoring with a 21.3 points per game average and a career high 43 point game in a losing effort against Lock Haven. In addition he led in blocked shots with 13. Center Scott Breitmeyer, the leading rebounder with an average of 7.0 per game, also was credited with 38 steals. Not to be outdone, playmaker Sam Burch was the assist leader with 57.

Though they didn't receive much publicity the junior varsity team which was mostly freshmen compiled an impressive 8-1 record.

Triple Overtime!

In what had to be the most heart-breaking, season-ending loss ever for Lycoming, the Warriors extended Scranton to the limit and beyond before losing a triple-overtime decision on the Royals home court, 70-66, in the first round of the 1986 MAC North playoffs.

Lycoming held a 42-32 lead with 10:20 to play in the game. But, Scranton showed why it had won six straight MAC North titles by slowly coming back and finally stealing an inbounds pass with 10 seconds to play and hitting a shot to tie the game at 52 at the end of regulation.

The Royals scored the first four points in overtime, but Breitmeyer drove baseline to score one basket then hit a baseline jumper with 5 seconds left to tie the contest at 56-56 and send it into second overtime.

Scranton again moved to a four-point lead with 1:36 to play, but Jay Cleveland hit a bank shot and Langer buried a 16 foot jumper with 2 seconds to play to knot the score at 64 and force a third overtime.

The Warriors took the lead on Sam Burch's long jumper with 1:28 to play, but that was to be the last basket of the season for Lycoming as Scranton scored the last six points to claim the four-point win after 55 minutes of play.

Track teams take great strides

Though the records were not impressive, both the men's and women's track teams made great strides under first-year coach Jim Burget. The women gained their first ever varsity dual-meet win, a 62-45 decision against Juniata. The men earned their first dual-meet win of the decade, 92-52 against Juniata.

A total of 17 track and field Warriors qualified for the MAC meet. Senior Mike Kern finished third in the shot put. Shane Rucker was sixth in the javelin. Lisa Witkowski was the lone Lycoming woman to place at the MAC's, taking fourth in the discus. Fourteen school records were set this season, seven each by the men and women.

Alpha Rho Omega

Formed April 1, 1981 it was the goal of Alpha Rho Omega to maintain a sisterhood stiving for unity loyalty, individuality and respect for all. Throughout the 1985-86 school year the sisters of Alpha Rho completed nine service projects which benefitted various people in the Williamsport area. Socially the sisters held several events throughout the year, and academically they strived to maintain the highest standards of scholarship.

The founding sisters created a sisterhood not only for the social opportunities, but also to promote scholarship throughout the campus and service to the community. Presently Beta Phi Gamma has 55 sisters with ten new sisters in the Upsilon class.

Beta Phi has contributed to community events through various service projects including the Easter Seals' daffodil sale and serving as leaders for local Girl Scouts and Brownies. A variety of parties ranging from the "Red Party" to the "Sweat Party" were popular social events that added a spark to campus life at Lyco.

Sigma Pi

The Sigma Pi fraternity has contributed to both the scholastic and athletic community of Lycoming College. Sigma Pi brothers contributed to the football team's successful season: a 10-0 record, earning the title of M.A.C. champions, and ultimately being invited to the Division III national playoffs. The "Pi" also achieved the distinction of being the recipient of the academic award for the fraternity having the highest grade point average on campus.

Gamma Delta Sigma was founded on November 7, 1977. "As a sisterhood we have grown to respect the strength of women, high academic achievement, and the individuality of each of our sisters," said Cheryl Piper. The members of Gamma Delta Sigma value the importance of the bond of sisterhood which is strong in this close-knit group of women.

After its establishment in 1965, the brotherhood of Theta Chi set out to serve the campus and not have the campus serve them. This is expressed in the motto of the fraternity: "Alma Mater first and Theta Chi for Alma Mater."

The brothers of Theta Chi practiced their philosophy by working for the American Cancer Society, the United Way and the March of Dimes. A Christmas dinner for the children at St. Michael's was a high point of their year. Without the Theta Chi Ox Roast, Homecoming weekend just wouldn't be the same.

Tau Kappa Epsilon

Tau Kappa Epsilon has had a long and prosperous history. Founded in 1899 it has grown into the largest national fraternity with well over 300 chapters. The Lycoming Chapter was founded on April 12, 1969. In the past year TKE has enjoyed a very busy and productive period coming out of social probation, putting together a band (The Knights of Classic Lore), and helping to run the first campus carnival. In the coming year the brothers are looking forward to even more growth and success.

The two mottos of Lambda Chi are "Every man a man" and "Naught without labor". These mottos act as further proof of the aims of the fraternity.

On December 6, 1985, Alpha Sigma Phi, the 10th oldest men's national fraternity, celebrated the 140th anniversary of their inception at Yale University. Alpha Phi Omega, a national service fraternity, was founded in 1925 at Lafayette College. The brothers of Xi Pi chapter on campus participate in an active program of service to the college, community, and the nation.

This year the brothers of Alpha Phi Omega organized two bloodmobile stops on campus and held a Dance Marathon benefitting the Cripple Children's Society and the Williamsport Home Repair Project. The Spring 1986 pledge class also participated in the program of service when they visited with the residents of Leader Nursing Home.

The three cardinal principles of Alpha Phi Omega are leadership, friendship, and service to all. It is the duty of all brothers to carry out these principles.

Unity, Strength, Leadership . . .

Acting as the central bodies for sororities and fraternities at Lycoming College the PanHellenic (PanHel) and Interfraternity (IFC) Councils encourage their members to strive for the following objectives: academic excellence, community service and social life. Their belief is that Greek life helps motivate a student academically while encouraging that student to meet his/her academic potential. They also stress that a Greek member takes pride in the volunteer services he/she provides for the Williamsport community. The importance of social functions, from picnics through semi-formals, is stressed.

The councils also stress that the parties and other social activities are not the top priority. "Service projects and fundraising activities take place as well, and above all, academic excellence has priority."

"Greek life," according to the councils, "is above all else a brotherhood and/or sisterhood. It's a friendship formed during one's college days and maintained throughout a lifetime."

Striving to Serve You . . .

Providing entertainment for the students of Lycoming College is the goal of the Campus Activities Board (CAB). Formed in 1979 CAB, the former Student Union Board, has been very successful in providing quality concerts and various other activities throughout the school year.

The Hooters, a Dance Marathon, Casino Night, the Dating Game and the Doug Henning Magic Show are a few of the many CAB sponsored activities held this year.

In addition to providing entertainment at Lycoming, CAB also strives to build collegiate spirit and participation.

Acting as liaison between the students and administration of Lycoming College is the mission of the Student Association of Lycoming College (SALC). SALC is concerned with being aware of problems faced by the students of the college and working toward satisfactory solutions to these problems.

In particular during this school term SALC conducted several surveys concerning the + / - grading system and lobbied in the faculty meeting for its repeal. An open house with the administration was also held. SALC cosponsored other programs with groups such as the Ad Hoc Committee on Alcohol Awareness.

Getting involved . . .

The Big Brother/Big Sister program, run by the United Campus Ministry, allows the interaction between college students and underprivileged children of the area. A student is assigned a "little" who is first visited at home so his/her parents may get acquainted with the "big."

The friendship then develops through weekly visits involving such activities as a trip to the movies, a quick meal at McDonalds or a stop for a dish of ice cream. Special activities to unify the group as a whole, such as a Halloween party where both the "bigs" and "littles" dress up, a Christmas party, a hay ride, and other events were held.

The Big Brother/Big Sister program not only provides an outlet for the children, but it is also enlightening for the "bigs" as well.

WRLC 91.7 was a familiar banner seen at most basketball games, as Bruce Mooney and Tom Speicher handled the broadcasting chores all season.

“You’re listening to the Rock 91.7 WRLC.” WRLC, Lycoming College’s 700 watt radio station offers students an opportunity to be on the airwaves as licensed DJs. Offering an open format, student DJs are basically free to broadcast the type of programs they wish. A variety of programs, ranging from Holly’s Metal Shop to Jim Bubb’s Comedy Hour, were on the air this year. Off-air positions, such as Record Librarian, are vital to the station, too.

Weekly meetings were held giving station manager Nancy Rudolph and other members of the executive staff the opportunity to discuss issues with the entire staff. Dean Jack Buckle also attended some meetings when the purchase of new studio equipment was discussed.

Operating a radio station such as WRLC requires technical expertise found in a chief engineer such as Skip Smith. Smith kept the studio in good technical shape thus allowing good broadcasts.

“No one individual is more important than another in the studio’s operation. The combination of everyone’s efforts at WRLC is what allows for a good operating station,” commented Smith.

Reaching Out

Reaching out to others. It is the goal of the United Campus Ministry (UCM) to unite the campus community. UCM, encompassing the Catholic Council, Chapel Fellowship, and the Big Brother/Sister program sponsored various activities throughout the year. Social events including the annual UCM semi-formal were held by UCM.

Catholic Council formed a folk group which performed at weekly masses. The Council also sponsored the Feast of St. Nicholas held during the Christmas holiday.

Members of the UCM, with the backing of Rev. Marie Lindhorst and Jim Minick, set out once again to help the homeless of the Williamsport area by repairing houses. The annual Day of Fast to aid in the cause of world hunger relief was also among the programs organized by UCM. All of the various programs sponsored by UCM and Catholic Council offer evidence that reaching out to the campus community and the world are a priority for the members.

Gushing water falls, roaring animals and buzzing lips were on the agenda for the Lycoming College Concert Band the week of April 26 — May 2. While most students were going home at the end of the spring semester the Concert Band was touring through upper New York State and eventually throughout Ontario, Canada.

The Bully Hill Vineyards, first stop of the travelling ensemble, offered members an opportunity to see wine production from grape to goblet. Grape growing, squashing, aging and bottling procedures were demonstrated showing how the production of reds, whites, roses and sparkling wines is achieved.

Next on the sightseeing tour was Niagara Falls. Members stood in awe observing the millions of gallons of water gushing over Horseshoe Falls. A view from one of three towers was available at the falls as well as trips through several museums. "I really liked the falls," Kathy Mazzotta added. "I was so excited I made the group I was with take the walking tour underneath the falls."

Roaring animals were heard at the Toronto Metro Zoo. Individual continent displays were seen throughout the zoo showing plant and animals representative of the continent. The band also spent a day in the city of Toronto visiting the highest free-standing tower in the world — the CN Tower.

Sightseeing, however, was not all the band did while on tour. A nearly two hour concert of various tunes ranging from Broadway show tunes like "A Chorus Line" to the French ballet piece "Le Biche" was held at each stop.

After arriving at each stop the ensemble would set-up the stage, warm-up, then enjoy dinner at the host church. After dinner the performance would take place giving the members a chance to demonstrate their talents.

"Tour is a lot of work," commented Luther Wagner. "Meeting all these people is a good experience though. That seems to make the work worth it."

Moving On

Widely acclaimed as one of the best college musical groups on the East Coast the Lycoming College Tour Choir set out on an East coast tour to Florida during Spring Break '86. Members of the tour choir found that the host family experience throughout the tour was a great opportunity to make new friends.

Stops in North Carolina, Georgia, and Florida gave members a chance to exercise their talents singing tunes ranging from "Orpheus and His Lute" to "In That Great Gettin' Mornin'."

Fun in the sun, Florida style, was available as members spent a day in Disney World allowing for a chance to see the one and only Mickey Mouse. The Magic Kingdom was not the only fun in Florida. Tanning and burning adventures were available on the beaches of Naples and Sanibel while in Florida.

Unfortunately all good things must come to an end. The group had to depart from Florida and head back to Pennsylvania. The return trip was made by plane instead of bus. As a result an exciting clincher to the tour occurred. Members had the experience of singing high above the clouds during their return flight.

"Without a doubt it was a wonderful time spent with wonderful friends. It's a memory which will last a lifetime," Michelle Seibert concluded.

Service and Information

Providing service to both the community and the world is the goal of Circle K, a national organization affiliated with the Kiwanis and Key Clubs.

Service activities of the organization for the 1985-86 term involved participation in two Red Cross sponsored bloodmobiles, assisting in the annual college fund phonathon and helping with the CROP walk. Several members participated in the delivery of gifts by "St. Nicholas" as well. The various activities held by Circle K demonstrate that its members are interested in serving both the community and the world.

The Physics Society includes all astronomy and physics majors as well as official members of the Society of Physics Students (a national organization). Activities this year included building and launching model rockets, Halley's Comet and star watches, fossil hunting and a trip to the University of Delaware to use some specialized equipment to analyze rock samples. An academic organization, the Physics Society's goal is to promote interest in physics.

Academic special interest groups are not the only special interest groups on campus. The Karate Club gives students an opportunity to learn a special skill, free of charge. Practicing once a week, members learn various skills including self-defense techniques.

Movin' On Up

With a finishing record of 43-1 the Lacrosse Club of Lycoming College sought varsity status at the conclusion of the season. The 25 member team played three more games than previous seasons resulting in a rather impressive record.

The high point of the season occurred during a tournament against Bloomsburg, Bucknell, and Penn State. The squad emerged victorious over all three teams without committing a single penalty.

The club was noticed practicing on the quad without the presence of a coach. Teaching the fundamentals of the game and helping to organize the club, however, was Dave Ondrusek, a Williamsport resident.

High on the list of objectives for the team was achieving varsity status. Having raised nearly all the funds for the team as well as providing their own transportation, the team felt that it was time they be considered a varsity team at Lycoming College.

The light of learning is passed on . . .

Activities of the graduation weekend opened on Friday evening with the Senior Class Party held in East Hall. Catered by Tiffany's, this was the first senior party held on campus.

Saturday's events started with the pinning ceremony for the charter nursing class of Lycoming College. A reception in Burchfield for all seniors and their families followed.

Students graduating with academic honors were recognized at the second annual Academic Awards Banquet. Seniors graduating summa cum laude, magna cum laude and cum laude, Lycoming Scholars and those earning departmental honors were introduced and presented certificates of achievement.

The baccalaureate service was held in Lamade gymnasium, which was transformed for the occasion. Those attending heard a message from President Blumer who preached the baccalaureate sermon. The Lycoming College choir and band supplied the music for the worship service.

Pomp and Circumstance

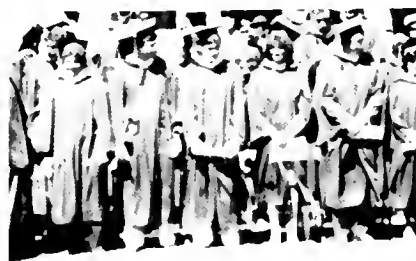

As the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" filled the quad, the Class of 1986 walked through the college gates to their commencement exercises. Two hundred twenty-one Bachelor of Arts degrees were awarded and, for the first time in its history, Lycoming conferred the Bachelor of Science in Nursing degree on twenty members of the charter nursing class.

Barbara Martin became the first individual to receive two degrees from the college simultaneously. The mother of five, earned both the B.S.N. and a B.A. in psychology.

Honorary degrees were conferred upon Stanton D. Barclay, president of Barclay Chemical Co., James W. Harding, chairman of the board of the Kemper Group, and Kenneth E. Himes, former treasurer of Lycoming College.

Achieving the Whole

Top: Not only the people, but the events are remembered throughout the year. Activities such as the "Campus Feud" are among these events.

Above: College is often seen as a home away from home. This Asbury resident utilizes her "second home" by studying for a final.

Attempts have been made to achieve the 4.0 . . . paying that astronomical phone bill . . . surviving the three hour labs . . . etc. Not every attempt was successful. Not everyone's goals were fulfilled as expected, yet a lesson was to be learned. Working piece-by-piece one will eventually achieve the whole.

Studying for finals, going to each class, being successful in a sport, etc. was not an easy task. The students of Lycoming College survived the challenge. Lycoming College is certainly a unique school. Yet, Lyco is not so different. Working piece-by-piece — Putting It All Together — anyone can achieve the whole!

Once the Hilltop Gymnasium, this building now acts as the newly renovated fine arts building.

Faces — Yes . . .

Above: Enjoying the LEAP Weekend activities Kim Nagle and Donna Hollenbeck are ready to hit the slopes. Top: Entering Williamsport from the South one gets a scenic view of the valley.

Home of both musical and religious activities, Clarke Chapel rises high over the campus of Lycoming College acting as a constant symbol of the college community.

Ideas — No.

Above: One may expect to return to Lycoming College in the year 2006 and find a structurally similar campus. The early spring demolition of the old Fine Arts building will not permit such an action.

Returning to Lycoming College twenty or thirty years down the road, one will find that Lycoming College has changed. The buildings will be different, and the people will certainly be different. Yet something will be the same. The students who pass through the campus will somehow be similar. They'll be working piece-by-piece to achieve the whole. The faces of Lycoming college will be changed, however, the concept of "Putting It All Together" will remain unchanged.

Photographers . . . pictures . . . film . . . mailings . . . and more. The production of a yearbook is very expensive. Fortunately, assistance is available through the generous assistance of our advertisers and patrons. Without their financial help, "Putting It All Together" would be impossible.

THOMAS DAVID JENKINS

Eighteen years can be either a very long time or a very short time, depending on your perspective. For us, it's a very short time because that was how long we had Tom. However, in terms of how he spent that time, it was a long time. He never lost an opportunity to travel and he enjoyed meeting people and making new friends. He cared deeply about the fate of our world and his concern affected both our family and his friends. He was very special and apparently God thought so, too; on October 12, 1985 He took Tom home.

Putting It All Together — '86

The theme of "Putting It All Together" was chosen by the Arrow staff because this feeling was portrayed by the students of Lycoming College in 1985-86.

Special thanks go to Mr. Jerry Zufelt for supplying sports photographs and statistics, Miss Molly Wentz for supplying band tour photographs and information, the administration, Ms. Sue Beidler our advisor, and Mr. Charles Bollinger our Herff Jones representative without whose unselfish assistance this book would not be possible.

Group photographs, senior portraits, faculty pictures and graduation photographs were taken by Davor Photo Inc., Philadelphia, Pa.

Three hundred and forty copies of the Arrow yearbook were printed by Herff Jones Yearbooks, Gettysburg, Pa. using offset photolithography. Pages were printed on Bordeaux 80 lb. gloss paper and endsheets on Vi-bracolor gray stock. All color photographs were reproduced from Type-C prints.

All body and caption copy was printed in Korinna type using 10 and 8 point sizes. Various headlines were used throughout the book. The cover was an original silk screened design with an applied color of Cadmium Red on an Almond base mounted on 120 point printers board.

The edifice of Clarke Chapel will remain in the hearts and minds of all students who passed through Lycoming College as the symbol of the campus. It acts as one's of the many key pieces in the complex puzzle of ones life at Lycoming.
